

POETRY.

STANZAS TO MRS.

More than the science Milton claimed
Thy favor'd suitor won,
When Hyacinth gave these varied charms—
A harem blent in one.
But see that on that brilliant gaze
May'n't love, but must adore,
And wish that Nigard Nature's hand
None such had made, or more.
The tempering radiance of those eyes
And ill disarms their fire;
But we, like moths by light allured,
Must in the blaze expire.

"NOTHING LIKE LEATHER."

"By Heaven!" cried my father, "I have not one appointment belonging to me which I set so much store by as I do by these boots."—Prism Shandy.

I never knew but one man who was really attached to hessian boots. It was my friend S—, and his attachment amounted almost to reverence. He always wore them summer or winter. Although a martyr to the gout, his respect for hessians overcame all desire for an easy shoe, when his fit was at the highest. I have seen him writh with pain under the infliction, and yet smile complacently at the polished calf of his favorite leather. When night came, a stranger might observe his ruffled temper, as he encountered the boot-jack and slippers; they were to him the heralds of departing bliss,
He sighed as he drew them off; and woe to the person whose business it was, if the boots were not in readiness in the morning at the moment he required them! Yet he was not punctilious in his dress; he wore not hessian boots for their smartness; he cared little whether they were clean or dirty; his love had a deeper root—it sprang from gratitude.

It is extraordinary how chance or mishap may suddenly bring to light the most inestimable qualities in very common, and, to all appearance, very trifling things. Hood has immortalized a wig as "a life-preserver," a property few could have guessed at. The warrior, however, falling into the clutches of some wild Indians in the back-woods of America, was sentenced to be scalped, and the operation was quickly performed
—but the knife passing fortunately between the skull and the frizzled top-knot, the artificial scalp came off in the Mohawk grasp, thus leaving the proprietor minus only his wig.

To pass from the head to the heels, it would be difficult to conceive how a pair of hessian boots could have rendered so important a service to my friend S—; yet they did. They were a life-preserver to him, and he treasured them accordingly—but let him tell his own tale.

"I dare say," said he to me one day, after an affectionate glance downwards, "I dare say you wonder at my fondness for hessian boots, but I am bound to them from respect to myself and my family. But for these bits of leather, sir, I should not be standing before you at this moment; they saved my life, sir. Thirty years ago, (it was in the winter of 18—) I was riding a little cross-grained chesnut cob over my own farm, when the beast making a sudden start, I was thrown off my guard and off the horse at the same moment. Well!
instead of standing still, (the horse I mean) as he should have done, he scampered away, as fast as his legs could carry him, across a forty-acre field; and what is worse, sir, my right foot hanging in the stirrup, he dragged me along with him. Luckily for me, there had been a heavy fall of snow, which doubtless saved me many broken bones; but what was a hundred times more fortunate, I was wearing hessian boots, sir. Well—when we had got to the opposite hedge, what with rolling and tumbling over and over, I had become a perfect snow-ball; and, luckily for me again, there was a ditch, which as I slid in, my foot slid out—out of my boot I mean—and away went the cob, boot and all.
Well—there I laid a senseless lump of snow; and, God knows, but for one circumstance, I might have laid there till the thaw came.

It so happened that my eldest boy was out, wandering about with a gun shooting rooks and crows, and such like, and passing near the spot where I laid, he with his gun at what he thought was a crow on the edge of the bank. Now, what do you think it was, sir? it was nothing more or less than my left hessian boot,
the only visible part about me; rather a critical moment, you'll say, if I could have known the rights of it; but, luckily for me, I was insensible. If I had moved my foot the least in the world, he'd ha' shot me as sure as a gun; but the boot was quiet; so he was doubtful of wasting a charge of powder and shot, and crept up towards it, holding his gun ready all the while. Well!
—in course he knew his father's boot, when he came close, and wondered how it came there. Well! he tugged and pulled but all to no purpose—there it stuck;
he little knew at the moment that his father's leg was inside. However, by this time, assistance was at hand;
my horse it appeared had excited some surprise at home, where he had found his way, with my boot hanging at the stirrup; so one and all set out in search of their master; but my belief is they'd never have found me, if my hessian boot had not shewn itself above the snow.
Well, sir, I was carried home and thawed inside and out, and luckily for me, very little damage done.—
Now, sir, I conceive my life was saved, in the first place, by my right boot coming off; and, secondly, by the left boot keeping on; and I'll only appeal to you as a man of feeling, whether, after such a warning as this, it does not become me to wear hessian boots for the rest of my life!"—London Magazine.

STONE HOUSE!

IN LOWELL.
This elegant Mansion is now open for the reception of boarders and strangers. The "Stone House" needs no recommendation to those who have formerly visited it. It stands on the southerly bank of the Merrimack River, about a quarter of a mile from the business part of the town of Lowell, fronting on the main road leading from Lowell westward, and having a Piazza in rear which immediately overlooks "Pawtucket Falls," and commands a delightful and extensive prospect up and down the River.

No situation in this country combines greater advantages for a summer residence, or resort of parties of pleasure. To many it will be some recommendation at this season, that excellent Salmon take in the Falls at this place. The admirers of mechanical art and power will not forget its vicinity in the most important and interesting of the Manufacturing towns in New England. The lovers of natural scenery will remember its elevated, cool and commanding site, perfectly secluded from the noise and business of the town.

The subscriber has fitted up and furnished the House at a liberal expense, and relying upon considerable experience in his business, and the utmost care and attention, hopes to be able to sustain its former reputation and meet the reasonable expectation of all who may be pleased to favor it with their patronage. GEORGE W. FARRABEE, Lowell, April 12, 1834. eptim—may 5

NEWTON RAIL ROAD HOUSE.—NEWTON

The subscriber would respectfully inform his friends and the public that the new House, where the Boston and Newton and Worcester Rail Road Cars stop, in Newton, formerly known as the "Newton House."—The house has been fitted and furnished in as good style as any house of its class in the vicinity of Boston. The situation is pleasant, the prospect delightful, and the arrangement such as will be approved by an enlightened public.

The Larder will be constantly provided with the luxuries of the season, the Bar stocked with the choicest Wines, Liquors, &c.—and no pains nor expense will be spared to make the establishment an agreeable retreat for those who may favor it with their patronage.

N. B. Military, Fire and Social companies accommodated at short notice.
The Stables and outhouses are very commodious—being built expressly for the accommodation of the team and Drover, who are invited to call—as they will find the best of attention.

Persons coming in the Rail Road Cars, can have Breakfast at half past six o'clock, A. M. JOHN DAVIS.

NEW ESTABLISHMENT.—The subscriber respectfully informs his friends and the public, that he has leased for a number of years the spacious basement

Washington, June 9th, 1834.—The House was occupied to-day, partly, in hearing Mr. Barnet's testimony from Pennsylvania, with a speech; but principally in taking yeas and nays on Mr. Wise's Resolutions, relative to the President's Protest, which was laid on the table, by a vote of 105 to 97. The balance of the time was devoted to a call of the House, which operated severely on members who were unwell, and obliged to leave their lodgings at 2 o'clock, with Farenheit at fever heat.

The Senate was employed pretty much till 5 o'clock, in reading the Reports on the Post Office, made by Mr. Ewing for the majority, and Mr. Grundy for the minority. The committee must have undergone a herculean labor to have made their reports, which have occupied a good portion of their time for more than five months. Both reports are minute, circumstantial, and voluminous; probing the Post Office Department to the core; giving an account of its receipts and expenditures, at different periods.

It is not worth my while to undertake to give an account of this business, in a short letter, which has occupied the Committee for so many months. Both Reports will soon be before the public; and people will be able to form their own opinions. The Committee, I believe, have gone into an examination of almost, or quite every Mail contract in the Union, as well as other contracts, entered into with the Post Office Department.

The Report of the majority concluded with several resolutions, embracing the principle subjects contained in a bill, reported by Mr. Grundy, to regulate the Post Office Department.

Mr. Grundy moved to have his minority Report read, as a paper, not as Report, which was acquiesced in by the majority of the Committee. All seemed desirous that every thing relating to the subject might be exhibited.

Mr. Grundy's Report was almost, if not quite as lengthy as the other Report. It explained, in an able and lucid manner, many things exhibited in the other Report.

Mr. Ewing said he did not let the minority know what view the majority would take; and Mr. G. said he did not hear their Report read. There were many cases of contracts he did know of, and of course had not attempted to explain.

In reading the reports, Mr. Ewing and Mr. Clayton relieved each other—as did Mr. Grundy and Secretary Lowrie. It was a relief to the audience as well as the readers—for no one can read with much interest, dry details of facts. Messrs Grundy and Ewing read very well; the others indifferently. All who are much interested in the subject will read for themselves.

Mr. Southard moved to have 30,000 of the report and documents printed—and Mr. Grundy moved, as an amendment, to have his report appended, which was consented to. The motion for the number was postponed, to enable the committee to select such documents as would be proper to accompany the report. This will be a powerful theme of discussion.

After this subject was disposed of, on motion of Mr. Swift, the Senate called up the joint resolution of adjournment, and concurred with the House, without debate, in fixing the day on the 30th of June.

REIS EFFENDI.

WHOLESALE MISREPRESENTATION.

“Mr Charles G. Greene, of Boston, Printer, and brother of the Postmaster of Boston, receives $23,000 a year for furnishing that Post-office with blanks, wrappers, and twine.”

The above statement from the Journal of Commerce, relative to the amount of money received by us from the Post Office in this city, is grossly exaggerated. Our whole yearly receipts from this Office, for the articles above named, do not exceed $500, and the actual profit made on the materials furnished, is a smaller percentage than is received by the City Printer of Boston, for his public printing.

The Poles.—We hope our citizens generally will second the exertions which a few individuals here are now making in behalf of these suffering people. The Philadelphians are doing nobly for them. At the Roman Catholic Church $203 were collected after an eloquent sermon by the Rev. Mr. Hughes. The United States Gazette says that “the sermon possessed uncommon interest, by the important historical facts it detailed, and still more by the cogent lessons deduced from them by the preacher. He declaimed largely and eloquently, on the former glories of Poland, where with an immense territory and population of 22,000,000 of souls, (nearly equal to the population of the British isles and double that of the United States a few years back,) under the great Sobieski, she was the powerful bulwark of Europe against the overwhelming torrent of Mussulmanic hordes which bid fair to spread the worship of Mahomet over western Europe, as they had done over the fairest portion of the eastern section, and the greater part of Western Asia;—on the prosperity of this noble nation, till by the failure of the regular dynasty, she became an elective monarchy, and lay at the mercy of base, heartless and domestic factions in the pay of rival nations; on her consequent feebleness—on the felonious dismemberment of the nation by the conspiracy of the trio of despots, the rulers of Russia, Prussia and Austria, by which she was ultimately blotted from the map of Europe—on the glorious efforts of Kosciusko and his coadjutors—on the constitution promised her, by the Congress of Vienna, and its perfidious violation—on the recent efforts under Schreynefski and others—and wound up by feelingly presenting the case of the exiles in New York to the benevolence of his auditors, to which appeal the congregation liberally responded.”

One hundred and fifty dollars have also been collected in aid of the Polish fund in the Fifth Presbyterian Church of that city.

It appears by the Albany Argus that the tolls on the canals in New York have amounted to fifty thousand dollars a week since the season commenced. According to a reasonable prospective estimate, in which a fair allowance is made for the decline of business during the heat of summer, the canals will have produced by the end of the season, in tolls alone, a sum not less than thirteen hundred thousand dollars. This would be ten times as much as was predicted by the Bank memorialists of Albany, and indeed the tolls already received exceed by one hundred and sixty seven thousand dollars, the estimate of their memorial for the entire season.

The New York Star, in speaking of the course adopted by the government of Harvard University, in citing students before the Grand Jury says—

“We judge the measure to be ill-advised, impolitic, and at variance with the dictates of common sense—construing the mere freaks of school boys into criminal intentions.”

POLICE COURT.

Forcible Entry and Ejectment.—Quite an interesting and important case was tried yesterday by Justice Simmons. In the month of March last, George W. Gamage bought an estate, with an unfinished house upon it, from Lafayette Carpenter. The purchase and conveyance were duly executed, and a written contract, under seal, was entered into between Gamage and Carpenter, in which it was agreed, that Carpenter should finish the house by the 1st of June, in consideration of which he was to hold a lease of the premises for six months from that date. On the 2d of June, Gamage conveyed the estate to a third person, who immediately re-conveyed it to Gamage, three children, who are minors, and are now in actual possession of the deed. As Gamage has never been legally appointed an agent, or guardian, to manage this or any other property belonging to his children, of course the estate in question was placed beyond his control, by its conveyance, by the intermediate, or third party, to his children. In the meantime, the written agreement between Gamage and Carpenter, had been partly superseded by a verbal one, which, however, could not be allowed to nullify the former; but on Monday last, Gamage gave Carpenter to understand, that he should occupy the house himself, and in fact did commence the occupation of it, by laying down some carpets, but not without an altercation upon the subject with Carpenter. On Tuesday, Gamage proceeded to the house with the bulk of his furniture, and found the windows and door nailed up. After calling upon Carpenter three times to open the door, to which Carpenter replied, that “he’d see him—first,” he broke in the door with an axe, and partly entered the house, where, after a distinct warning, Carpenter knocked him down with a plank, and inflicted a very severe blow on his jaw, which injured him so much as to confine him to his bed the next day.

For this assault, Gamage commenced a criminal prosecution against Carpenter, who was thereupon arraigned, and his counsel rested his defence, 1st—upon the fact, that Gamage was a stranger, who possessed no right of entry, even under color of law, much less a forcible one; and 2d—that there still existed an uncancelled contract between them, securing to Carpenter the occupancy of the premises, and on that ground also he had a right to resist by force the entry of Gamage—whether that entry was forcible or not. After a very tedious examination, the defendant was discharged.

Law and Ladies.—Patrick Kennedy says to his beloved wife Jane, who had taken “tippance worth to mend her head”—“may be ye’ll be getting a bite o’ dinner;” but “may be ye may get it yourself, ye Paddy,” replies the comforter of his bosom, the solace of his sorrows. Patrick “didn’t mind being a Paddy,” but “couldn’t be called one by the likes o’ her,” so gave her a smart twinge of the nose, which made her cry murder, and drew to their room the attention of the constables, who arrested poor Patrick forthwith. But the Court were of opinion that such a compression of the proboscis of a blipped and saucy wife did not exceed the moderate chastisement winked at by the gallant spirit of the law.

William Potter has always a reasonable “come off,” to give, whenever he is caught napping, or recumbent, in the street, which usually happens on his first visit from the country, whither he wends his tottering steps upon each successive discharge from the House of Correction. In the present case, he was found laying in the street, thoroughly “tanned,” which malapropos predicament, he, with great gravity, attempted to explain as follows:—“I had but just come down from Holliston; and I’ll own, that I laid down, as it seemed kind a natural to put me in mind of old times; and also perhaps, my meeting so many old acquaintances, made me feel and look pretty much sorter like as if I was kinder drunk, which I warn’t, no more than I be now.”—Six months.

“The Cornelius Mahoney” referred to in yesterday’s report, as being one of the rioters, in Broad street, is not the respectable individual of that name, who keeps a tavern in Federal street, nor any relation to him.

Sack and Buskin.—A late paper printed somewhere in the backwoods of Ohio, contains the following announcement:—

Dramatic Society.—On Monday evening will be presented at the house of Jacob Lindley in this place, the splendid Tragedy ALANCO. The performance of the evening will be concluded with the laughable Farce called LOCK AND KEY. The curtain will rise at 8 o’clock. The citizens of Mansfield and its vicinity are respectfully invited to attend.

The occasion of the non-arrival of the Mail south of New York, at noon yesterday, was the grounding of the steamboat in the Raritan, where she was detained several hours, waiting for the rise of the tide.

In Baltimore, Concerts and Fire Works go together—they will add a baloon ascension to finish the entertainments.

Latest from France, direct.—This morning the packet ship Havre, Capt Stoddard, arrived from Havre, whence she sailed on the 8th of May. Our political advices from Paris, by this vessel, are no later than were received by the Sylvanus Jenkins, from Liverpool. Our commercial dates are several days later.—N. Y. Com.

Havre, May 7.—Our stock of Cotton has been by the recent arrivals increased to 23,000 bales. Holders are more disposed to realize. There is but little cotton in the hands of the manufacturers. Coffee has again become dull. Ashes are still without change, notwithstanding the favorable accounts from your side. A small quantity of Rice of superior quality has been sold as high as 27c. Indigo continues entirely neglected—the supply expected direct from Calcutta is likely to be more than adequate to the supply of our home consumption.—Cor. J. Com.

A passenger in the ship Gulnare, from Havre, at Baltimore, states that when he sailed, (April 30th,) it was currently reported that Louis Philippe had pledged his private fortune to pay the American Claims, should the Chamber of Deputies again refuse. This must be an error, as our advices by the Sylvanus Jenkins, are to the 7th May, from Paris, and no mention is made of the fact.—N. Y. Gaz.

Robertson, the celebrated aeronaut, has arrived in this city, and will make an ascension from Castle Garden, on Wednesday next. His balloon decorations, &c. are the same as were used in celebrating the result of the “three days in Paris.”—Ibid.

At Baton Rouge the weather has been unusually cold for the season. The crops of young cotton and corn were suffering severely from the ravages of the cut worm and cut bug.

For the Boston Morning Post.

Trades’ Union.—We perceive among the dependants of the monied aristocracy, continued and systematic efforts to decry the Trades’ Union, and to bring them into disrepute. We are not surprised at this, for the object of the Trades’ Union is to guard and protect its members against the selfish proceedings of capitalists. The working classes, or in modern phrase, the operatives, see the “Wealth Unions” united under legal, corporate associations, which unions, or companies, adopt rules and regulations, fixing the time the operative shall labor each day, and the rate of wages he shall receive, and the only effective antagonist measure the laborer can raise, is in the Trades’ Union. Is it not as fair for the laboring mechanic to have a common understanding what they shall charge for their work, as for the manufacturer and merchant to agree what they will or will not give? This is often done on their part—namely, it is always done in some of the large manufacturing, which have a regular “Union,” and report from one factory to another, when they dismiss an operative, and the reasons why; and in this way effectually outlaw him. The ship builders, who have a “Union,” agreed, for the purpose of aiding the panic, and to feather their own nests, this spring, to cut down the wages of their workmen—who, having no “Union,” to oppose to the union of their employers, were obliged to yield. Have not the factories at Dover and Lowell cut down the wages of their operatives in like manner? And yet, notwithstanding the “pressure,” they divide twelve per cent. for six months, and probably keep a reserve fund besides. The moment the operatives declined taking the prescribed wages, they were reported by the “union of corporate wealth,” to all those factories, and were, de facto, outlawed, until they would submit to work on such terms as would yield the capitalists some 25 per cent. on their investments. If the capitalists will leave the work market open to free competition—if they did not combine to reduce the price of labor, there would be no occasion for Trades’ Unions. But under the present organization of monied corporations and other capitalists, the safety of the working classes depends upon “Unions”—united, concerted efforts, and it will not be surprising to find the female operatives organizing these Unions among their sex. It is but the dictate of self-interest and equal justice.

The Philadelphia Commercial Intelligencer gives the following account of the interesting marriage ceremony at Otseheite, between Capt. Spooner, of Newport, and Miss Kingtara Orunuth, of Otseheite. The account is derived from the Otseheite correspondent of the Intelligencer.—N. Y. Times.

“The bride, Miss Kingtara Orunuth, says our correspondent, is the daughter of Demstrifwomdamnuf, one of the chiefs of the island, and is connected with most of the noble families of the kingdom. She is about sixteen years of age, of a bright mahogany color, with her cheeks tattooed in the most lovely manner, and her ears slit in a style peculiarly fascinating. Her eyes are large, and of a beautiful color. Her lovely form, which was almost six feet six inches tall, was gracefully enveloped in an old blanket, and during the performance of the matrimonial rites, the fair bride stood before her happy lover modestly engaged in masticating a sugar cane. The young lady is said to be highly accomplished, and delighted the company assembled on this solemn occasion, by an exhibition of her superior skill in swimming. The bridegroom is a hearty mariner of Newport. He was elegantly dressed for the occasion, in a blue jacket and white trousers. He swore that the lovely Kingtara alone was fit to share the hammock of a Yankee sailor; and said that if the masters complained that he was unskillful in his business—whaling—they could not deny that his wife, at least, is a whaler.”

Counterfeiters Arrested.—Several active citizens of this town having made an excursion of about a week into the country, have succeeded in ferreting out a nest of Counterfeiters in Mexico, Oxford County, and the neighboring towns. The ringleaders are believed to have fled to Canada; but they arrested David K. Gleason, Simon C. Gleason, and Jesse Morse, of Mexico, and took them before Alvan Bolster, Justice of the Peace in Rumford, who ordered them to be held in Paris in October. Samuel B. Parsons, of Chesterville, was also arrested, examined before Oliver Sewall, J. P., and directed to give bonds for his appearance at the October term of the Supreme Court in this county.—Hallowell (Me.) paper.

Tribute of Respect.—An elegant Mantel Clock was on Monday last presented to Capt. James H. Blake, late Foreman of Engine and Hose Co. No. 7, by the members of that association, as a testimony of respect for the faithful manner in which he has performed the duties of his office. Captain Blake at the same time presented the Company with a splendid Brass Pipe.—Trans.

Accident.—A young man by the name of Booth, a carpenter, a native of Springfield, fell from the staging of the new dwelling house, building by Dr Webster, at Cambridge, and was severely injured. It was feared that his back was broken.—Ibid.

Lowell Bank.—We understand that considerable excitement exists among our business men, in consequence of some developments recently made relative to the transactions of the officers of this institution.—The large number of bank suits entered at the present term of the court, and the manner in which they were brought, has subjected the officers of the bank to severe censure from individuals—whether just or unjust, we are unable to say.—Lowell Mercury.

Commerce.—It is an undeniable fact, that more goods have been sent to the western country this season than at any previous one whatever; and what is surprising in these times of talked distress, the merchants from the West, who have made purchases of goods in the East, have paid more cash in hand on said purchases than they were previously in the habit of doing.—Pittsburgh Manu.

Miss Virginia Moniar, who made her first appearance last evening, is a gentle, quiet actress, of considerable beauty. She has not a good stage face; but a near view of her features exhibits a pleasing Grecian contour. Her complexion is blonde, and her eye very intelligent. Still, she is not an extraordinary actress; nor does she come up by any means to the pictures drawn of her in the South American journals.—Phil. Intelligencer.

The “Eastern Pass,” in going into Apalachicola, has been carefully examined by the collector and a party of gentlemen, who report 18 feet of water on the bar, at the Eastern entrance to a safe anchorage, within twelve miles from town, and that twelve feet can be brought within five miles of town.

Execution for Arson.—We learn from the Raleigh Register, that Benjamin F. Seaborn, who was convicted of setting fire to the store of Mr. Smith, of that city, in 1832, and executed for the crime, at Fayetteville, on Friday week, made a full confession of his guilt under the gallows.

The last Legislature of North Carolina passed a law extending the jurisdiction of their Courts over the Cherokee country within the State.

Miscellaneous Selections.

Mohammed Ali.—I will tell you a story; I was born in a village in Albania, and my father had ten children, besides me, who are all dead, but while living, not one of them contradicted me. Although I left my native mountains before I attained to manhood, the principal people in the place never took any step in the business of the commune, without previously inquiring what was my pleasure. I came to this country an obscure adventurer, and when I was yet but a bimashi (captain) it happened one day that the commissary had to give each of the bimashi’s a tent. They were all my seniors, and naturally pretended to a preference over me; but the officer said—“Stand you all by—this youth, Mohammed Ali, shall be served first;” and I advanced step by step, as it pleased God to ordain; and now here I am—(rising a little on his seat, and looking out of the window which was at his elbow, and commanded a view of the Lake Mareotis)—and now here I am. I never had a master—(glancing his eye at the roll containing the imperial firman).—St. John’s Travels.

The March of Meals.—The French, who, in matters of taste, invariably set us a bright example, are about to teach us a new luxury in the shape of perambulating coffee houses. Omnibuses of the largest size are now fitting up in Paris, intended for the use of those who, lumbly wishing to do two things at once, will have the opportunity of moving from one point to another, while eating their dinner, or luxuriating over their tasse de Cafe. A constant supply of ready-cooked dishes, continually kept warm, will be contained in each. They will have certain depots where fresh supplies may be procured, and thus the peripatetic gourmand has only to step in and at once refresh his limbs and his appetite.

“I have always two thousand crowns at the service of my friends,” exclaimed D—, in a large party. “Lend me them,” said an intimate friend, “and you will do me the greatest possible service. A pressing necessity occurs to me for the sum you mention: send it me, and I will return it to-morrow.” “You did not understand me,” returned D—; “I said I had always two thousand crowns at the service of my friends, but if I were to lend them to you, I should have them no longer.”

Mr —, a little stumpy, ugly, black looking man, altogether strongly resembling an owl, said one evening with an air intended to convey much roughish meaning, “To-night I shall lay down in my own bed for the first time these two years.” A gentleman in company looked round at this bravado, but seeing what sort of a figure it was that uttered it, whispered to a friend, “The gentleman probably roosts.”

The Albanians, like the modern Romans, pursue their avocations out of doors; even the attentions of courtship are carried on with amusing publicity at the house door: or the Zitella, leaning out of a first floor window, listens complacently to the loud and passionate pleadings of her enamored one in the street below.

A German Prince having in a dream seen three rats, one fat, the other lean, and the third blind, sent for a celebrated Bohemian gypsy and demanded an explanation. “The fat rat,” said the sorceress, “is your prime minister—the lean rat, your people—and the blind rat, yourself.”

When the mother of the Regent (Duke of Orleans,) died, Ci git l’oisine—(here lies idleness)—was waggishly repeated as her epitaph—idleness being the mother of all vice.—Chenex on National Character.

A Long Nose.—A Paisley thread manufacturer having got, by some accident, a severe cut across the nose, and having no court-plaster at hand, stuck on his unfortunate proboscis one of his gum tickets on which was the usual intimation—“warranted 350 yards long.”

Profits upon Horse Flesh.—A gentleman well known in London, has accumulated upwards of 20,000l. in buying and selling horse flesh, having in fifteen years slaughtered the immense number of forty-five thousand horses.

A Spanish Journal states that a lady in Madrid, named Dona Mercedes de Mendoza, awoke on the 15th February last from a trance, in which she had lain for four years. During that period she never tasted food, but she is now in perfect health.

Accession of Wealth.—By a recent decree of the Court of Chancery, a sergeant of Marines, of the Portsmouth division, has come into the possession of 75,000l. and two large estates, one in Berkshire and the other in Wales.

Illinois—The Crops.—The Sangamo [Ill.] Journal, of May 24, states that the crops never looked better than at the present time; some fields of corn are ready for the plough while others are not planted. The weather is extremely fine for the farmers.

A new born infant was left by its unfeeling parent at the door of his house in Albany. When discovered, it was in the agonies of death, in consequence of the exposure; but, by timely applications, it was ultimately restored.

Burden’s Boat.—An experiment trip was made yesterday afternoon with Mr Burden’s new steamboat, the result of which was very satisfactory. A person who was on board, thinks she went twice as fast as a common steamboat. She is not yet finished.—N. Y. paper.

Lewis Stebbins, aged 18, clerk in a store in Springfield, Ms. was drowned in Mill river, on Saturday afternoon, while bathing. He was a good swimmer, but was probably seized by the cramp, or some sudden disorder.

The late rains had raised the streams in the neighborhood of Milledgeville, to a height never known before by any of the old inhabitants; it is supposed a great deal of damage has been done to the river plantations.

Saratoga Rail Road.—This road from Ballston Spa to Waterford, N. Y., is under contract, and the work now in progress.

CONGRESS.

In the Senate, on Tuesday, no business of particular importance was transacted. The motion of Mr Southard to print thirty thousand extra copies of the Report on the Post Office coming up, a further discussion ensued, but the Senate adjourned before any question was taken.

The House was occupied until 9 o’clock, upon the contested Kentucky election, when the main question, bestowing the seat upon Mr Moore, was taken and decided in the negative, 112 to 108.

The Messrs Delano, will give a Concert of Vocal and Instrumental Music this evening, at the Town Hall, in Charlestown, assisted by the Brigade Band. For particulars see advertisement in another column.

THE LAST SUPPER.—The Proprietor of this Magazine, in view of the LORD’S SUPPER, respectfully informs the public that at the suggestion of many individuals, the Exhibition, hereafter, will be open at the MASONIC TEMPLE, EVERY EVENING.

By this arrangement an opportunity to witness this beautiful specimen of Art, will be afforded to those whose occupations preclude the possibility of attending such Exhibitions during the day.

Hours of Exhibition from 11 A. M. till 1 P. M.; from 3 till 6 P. M., and from 7 till 9.

The room will be open for visitors from 6 till 9 o’clock P. M. on SUNDAY EVENINGS.

Tickets of admission, 25 cents—Season Tickets 50 cents to be had at the Door.

PRINTERS’ ASSOCIATION.—A special meeting of the Printers’ Association will be held at the Trades’ Union Hall, Harvard Place, opposite the Old South Church, THIS EVENING, at 8 o’clock, to hear the Report of their Committee concerning the 4th of July celebration, and to act on the same—and to attend to any other business that may come before the meeting.

All those who wish to become members are respectfully invited to attend.

GEORGE P. OAKES, Sec’y.
